

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

All the ladies of Frankfurt were mourning on the 16th ult. that day being the anniversary of the entrance of the Prussians into the city.

The Bishop of Hereford, England, is in such an entire state of mental prostration as to be altogether past work.

Another new opera by M. Offenbach, La Permission de Dix Heures, has been produced at Bms, with entire success.

Reveries in business and four feet of rope were the cause of death in the case of a Milwaukee merchant.

Letters from Constantinople state that the Sultan has directed a commission for the purpose of establishing a code in his dominions based on the Code Napoleon.

A Swedish tenor, Herr Labatt, a singer of great popularity at the Royal Theatre at Stockholm, has entered into an engagement to appear at Her Majesty's Theatre next summer.

While the King of Sweden is on his travels, Sweden and Norway are, in accordance with their political constitution, governed by a council of Regency, of which Prince Oscar is President.

The Rev. F. E. Baker, Vicar of Allensmore, Herefordshire, England, who died recently, was a worthy man, but somewhat eccentric. He would pull off his coat and go and break stones on the road, allowing the workman to rest in the meantime.

Fuad Pasha, the celebrated Minister of Abdul-Aziz, made a speech in England, in which he described the Eastern question as one of economics rather than politics.

Railroads, commercial activity, and progress," he said, "would soon give a different aspect to the tangled skein of Eastern affairs."

Sir Moses Montefiore having received most heartrending accounts of the sufferings of his co-religionists in Moldavia, has determined, notwithstanding his great age, to proceed from England on a charitable mission to Jassy, to exercise his influence on behalf of the sufferers.

The common nightly receipts at Niblo's Garden are $1500. In view of this it is amusing to read in the French papers that the receipts at a recent performance of the Biche au Bois, at the Porte St. Martin, reached the unprecedented sum of 7142 francs, or less than $1400.

General Heintzelman, heretofore connected with the Fifth Military District, and stationed in Texas, has been ordered by the War Department, at the expiration of his present leave of absence, to report in New York, and await further orders.

Considerable interest has been excited in Bengal by the death of the Hon. Sumnonth Pundit, the only native yet found worthy of a seat on the bench of an Indian High Court.

The deceased judge was of Cashmere origin; his family never intermarried with Bengalees, and he kept aloof from all Bengalee usages. He began life on £24 a year as a clerk, and then went to the native bar.

During the centenary, Francis, the ex-King of Naples, held quite a Royal Court in Rome. He kept open house, and received four thousand visitors attached to the old regime. It is said that a large number of brigands took part in the celebration, and it was remarked that for a few days brigandage almost entirely ceased.

A noble inventor has just appeared in the person of the Earl of Cashness. His lordship has made an patented a compass, which is said to be a great improvement on those now in use. The inventor claims for it a superiority to most of the influences by which compasses are liable to be vitiated. It has been tested on the Clyde, and seems to have given great satisfaction.

The Sultan's visit to Lady Palmerston was paid by his Majesty at his own special desire, and was the only private visit he paid in England. The Sultan said that Lord Palmerston was the Englishman he had most desired to see, and that, as he had been removed by inexorable fate, it was his (the Sultan's) wish to pay homage to his name by visiting her ladyship.

When Victor Hugo's comedy, the Barcaroles, was produced with very qualified success, a reaction in favor of the classic, as opposed to the romantic school of dramas having set in, he had in his portfolio a new drama almost finished, entitled Les Deux Jumeaux. This work, already received at the Comedie, Victor Hugo threw aside in disgust, and it has remained to this day incomplete. It is hoped it will now be given to the world. It turns upon the adventures of the Man in the Iron Mask. M. Hugo has adopted the view, which M. Alexandre Dumas subsequently worked out very ingeniously in his Vicomte de Bragelonne, that the man in question was a brother of Louis XIV.

The female Australian black swan in the Zoological Gardens, of Lyons, France, a short time since laid two eggs, and as she did not seem anxious to sit upon them, they were placed among six others produced by a white swan. All the birds were hatched, and of the same grayish hue. But the male and female old birds instinctively discovered the intruders, and maltreated them so much that one died, the other being rescued with some difficulty. It is at present thriving, and the black plumage which distinguishes its race are beginning to appear.

The Tribunal of Police of the Canton of Vaud, in Switzerland, has lately been engaged in trying a young man named Piquilloud, charged with having for some time past practised medicine and surgery in female attire. It appeared that he had succeeded in completely disguising himself as a woman, and had obtained, under the name of Miss Abbott, and in the quality of an American, admission into several families, offering his services chiefly to ladies. The fraud was detected by a hair-dresser, to whose shop he went to purchase a chignon. It was found that he could only be convicted of the illegal exercise of his profession, and on that count the Court condemned him to one month's imprisonment.

In his novel of "Norwood," Henry Ward Beecher discourses as follows concerning the future life of horses:—"What do you think becomes of horses, Hiram, when they die?" said Rose.

"Wal, Miss Rose, it's my opinion that there's use for horses hereafter, and that you'll find there's a horse-heaven. There's Scripture for that, too."

"Ah!" said Rose, a little surprised at these confident assertions. "What Scripture do you mean?"

"Why, in the Book of Revelations! Don't give an account of a white horse, and a red horse, and black horses, and grey horses, I've allers' sposed that when it said death rode on a pale horse, it must have been grey, in the ninth chapter, too, it says there was an army of two hundred thousand horsemen. Now, I should like to know where they got so many horses in heaven if none of 'em that die off here go there? It's my opinion that a good horse's a darned sight likelier to go to heaven than a bad man!"

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION.—ARRIVAL OF THE WASHINGTON ENGINE COMPANY OF BROOKLYN. Last night the city was enlivened by martial music from numerous bands, and the display of brilliant torches and fireworks. The occasion was in honor of the Washington Engine Company of Brooklyn, which arrived at 8 o'clock last night at Walnut street wharf, amid the cheers of hundreds of the representatives of the Fire Department of this city, in connection with many from Camden. The procession moved in the following order over the route named:—Up Walnut to Third, up Third to Chestnut, up Chestnut to Ninth, up Ninth to Spring Garden (on north side) to Thirteenth, down Thirteenth to Arch, up Arch to Fifteenth, down Fifteenth to Fitzwater, down Fitzwater to Tenth, down Tenth to Washington, up Wharton to Eleventh, up Eleventh to Reliance Engine House, and there the procession was formed as follows:—

Band, Harmonica, 58 men. Steamer, James Pollock, Marshal, Hope Hose, 14 men. R. R. Guildwin, Marshal, Assistance Engine, 16 men. Martin Kilack, Marshal, Warren Hose.

58 men, with hose carriage. Robert Motherwell, Marshal. Engine.

120 men, with steamer of the Washington Engine Company.

The Victory Firemen, Washington Engine, of Brooklyn, 72 men, wearing black coats and caps. John Cunningham, Marshal, Band of the Fourteenth New York State militia.

United States Hose, of Camden, 12 men. Charles J. Vanclief, Marshal, South-west Engine, 14 men. G. W. Gove, Marshal, Fairmount Engine, 11 men.

Dusters burlesque. Steam Fire Company dressed in a fantastical manner, having with them an imitation steamer, drawn by four mules, and preceded by a band numbering 101 men. J. Branson, Capt. Marshal.

ESCAPED FROM THE HOSPITAL.—Henry Forrest, who attempted to murder his wife in the office of Alderman Hibberd, a few weeks ago, and afterwards cut his own throat, made his escape from the Pennsylvania Hospital on Tuesday night by scaling the wall. This is the thirtieth person who has succeeded in making his escape from the hospital within our recollection, under similar circumstances. Such criminals should be placed in the prison hospital.

A SENIORS FALL.—Yesterday afternoon George Nichols, residing in Brown street, above Tenth, while engaged in repairing the roof of a house in Brandywine street, below Broad, slipped to the pavement with a bucket of hot pitch. He was seriously injured about the head from the fall, and was badly scalded with the pitch. His injuries are such a character as to leave but little hope for his recovery. He was admitted to the Pennsylvania Hospital.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—John Moore, a member of the Third District Police, while attempting to get on the front platform of a passenger car at Seventh and South streets, yesterday morning, was thrown under the car and dragged some distance. One of his arms, a collar bone, and several ribs were broken. He was taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital, where he died in a few hours. Mr. Moore was fifty years old, and he leaves a wife and family. He resided in the southern part of the city.

Brislin to Semmes. General Brislin, of Kentucky, replies at length to "Admiral" Semmes' "communication," which appeared on Friday. It will be remembered that the "Admiral" expressed a desire to fight, but implied, in advance, that General Brislin would neither send nor accept a challenge. The latter replies:—"You certainly could not expect me to challenge a person in a way that would not tell me the difference between stealing a pocket-book from a man and stealing a gunboat from a Government?"

He adds:—"Army officers are quiet men, who attend to their own business, and are not aware of any body. They will not permit conquered Rebel editors to subdue them with impunity for their loyal opinions, and what may be your experience with me, my advice to you is hereafter, to remember who and what you offend your own affairs, and let Union officers alone."

The Memphis Bulletin's editor has evidently woken up the wrong individual.

A Surgical Operation in the Days of the Incas. The British Medical Journal says:—"M. Broca has presented to the Academy a most remarkable anatomical preparation. It is a skull found in the tomb of the Incas four miles from the city of Cuzco. M. Broca believes that the skull belonged to an individual who underwent at the same time a fracture and a denudation of the frontal bone. The curious part of it is that the bone shows traces of having undergone the operation of trephining. A circular white spot is visible, which shows necrosis of a portion of the bone; and all around it the rarefied tissue has evidently been the seat of an osteitis, the commencement of eliminative action. M. Nélaton has examined the preparation, and calculates that the patient survived the operation about fifteen days. The opening is of a lozenge shape, and about twelve millimetres in diameter. M. Broca thinks that the operation was performed with a gouge."

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH.—The Scientific Association of France promises to effect more for scientific purposes than any other continental society. Already it has expended 78,000 francs in scientific investigations and experiments. Its Bulletin in future is to be a weekly instead of a monthly publication.

WANTS. BOOK AGENTS IN LUCK AT LAST. The crisis is passed. The hour has come to lift the veil of secrecy which hitherto enveloped the inner history of the great civil war, and this is done by offering to the public General L. C. Baker's

"HISTORY OF THE SECRET SERVICE." For thrilling interest this book transcends all the romances of fiction, and is as conclusively proven that "truth is stranger than fiction."
